

88

МОСКОВСКИЙ ГОСУДАРСТВЕННЫЙ УНИВЕРСИТЕТ имени М.В. ЛОМОНОСОВА

ОЛИМПИАДНАЯ РАБОТА

Наименование олимпиады школьников: «Ломоносов»

Профиль олимпиады: Английский язык

ФИО участника олимпиады: Корнилов Тимофей Натан

Класс: 11

Технический балл: 88

Дата проведения: 05 марта 2022 года

Учурмобук 2.

Учурмобук 1.

- 1A:
1. False, since Edward ~~the~~ I inherited the throne from his father.
 2. False, since Alexander attained numerous victories and Edward is said to have been a good tactician.
 3. True, since Edward had a wife named Eleanor and Alexander married in 1239.
 4. True, since Edward had anger issues which he had to solve as a ruler.
 5. Not stated in the text.
 6. Not stated in the text.
 7. True, since Alexander imposed the rule of his son on Novgorod, thus limiting the power of the veche.
 8. True, since a legal reform has occurred during Edward's reign and the laws of Alexander helped the country to heal ~~from~~ after the Mongol invasion.

13

1B: The reign of king Ayaz was prosperous. Untold riches filled his treasury. The kingdom's might was maintained by the legions of his son Amun, who was meant to inherit it. But what his father was blissfully unaware of was that Amun started sowing Ayaz's love. Some army commanders had their eyes on the power they could gain should the realm crumble; and with gleeful anticipation, they sown the seeds of betrayal in the marshal's soul, and Amun rebelled. He was a magnificent strategist, and soon besieged the capital. Defeat would threaten all of Ayaz's subjects, and he had to duel his son. But the king was old and soon suffered a horrible wound. Only the sacrifice of a royal guard saved the great ruler, as he ran into the killing blow. This gave Ayaz just enough time to pierce his son's heart. The tearful father was carried back to his palace, where he fell into a lethargy. Thus, his ~~son~~ faithful son Robert became his regent and started re-forging the kingdom.

27

Memobuk 2.

- Greetings. Today, we are having an interview with H.P. Lovecraft, an American writer from the 1920s, and one of the ~~best~~ ^{most important} authors in horror fiction. So, Mr. Lovecraft, today's discussion is about science, which is a theme your works were mostly rather distant from, since they mostly addressed esoteric and occult ~~themes~~ ^{subjects} and these are usually considered anathema to rational thinking. Do you truly believe that we cannot understand the universe ~~through~~ through pure logic?

- Yes I do, in fact, think so. We humans consider ourselves a miracle, but our simple minds are not even able to truly comprehend the vast size of the cosmos. While one may only wonder whether the otherworldly horrors depicted in my works could actually exist, the main idea of my work is to show that men are not more than specks compared to everything ~~else~~ that exists there is.

- But your ~~novels~~ novels were written when there was still a limited understanding of technology. ~~Today~~ In the contemporary world, there are ~~much more~~ ^{truly} powerful weapons of destruction, such as hydrogen bombs and engineered viruses. Are you not afraid that it might be mankind that will destroy the world?

- That is quite possible. Did you notice that in my books, the cultists of the various dark entities, commit ~~as~~ as much evil deeds as these powers themselves? ~~The~~ ~~human~~ ~~kind~~ is not evil by nature but all too easily swayed by temptations. Even then, if our Earth is destroyed, it will not be such a notable event for the entire universe.

- You might be right. Finally, I wanted to ask what perspectives do you see for the scientific progress in the future. Personally, I have been very excited to hear about recent discoveries related to space warping. If properly researched, this technology could take us to distant stars!

- Indeed, but it also might turn out very dangerous. I believe that scientific advancement should never become too proud of itself since we truly are in the grand scheme of things. We should never forget how unimportant

- Thank you sincerely, Mr. Lovecraft. I hope our readers will enjoy this interview.

Уацмолуа.
Уепробуа.

1. False, since Edward I inherited the throne from his father.
2. False, since Alexander attained numerous victories and Edward is mentioned to have been a good strategist.
3. True, since Edward had a wife named Eleanor and Alexander got married in 1232.
4. True, since Edward had anger issues which he had to overcome as a ruler.
5. Not stated in the text.
6. Not stated in the text.
7. True, since Alexander imposed the rule of his son on Novgorod, thus limiting the power of the вече.
8. True, since a legal reform has occurred during Edward's reign and the laws of Alexander helped Russia to restore after the Mongol invasion.

1B. ~~The~~ The reign of king Ayaz was ~~very~~ prosperous. ~~There were~~ ~~untold~~ untold riches were ~~filling~~ ^{filled} filling the treasury. ~~Every year~~. The might of the kingdom was maintained by the legions of his ~~marshal~~ ~~and~~ eldest son Aman, who was meant to inherit ~~the throne~~. But what his father was blissfully unaware of was that Aman started doubting the love of Ayaz, since ~~the latter~~ ~~enjoyed~~ the comfort of his capital while ~~the former~~ ~~endured~~ the frontlines. A group of ~~the~~ commanders in the army ~~have~~ long had their eyes on the power they could gain if the realm would crumble; and ~~the~~ marshal's uncertainty has given them glee in anticipation. Slowly ~~and~~ ^{the} patiently, they have sown the seeds of betrayal in his soul, and ~~soon they took root~~. Aman rebelled, leading ~~many~~ ~~regiments~~ and ~~some~~ of his younger brothers into ~~domination~~. He was a magnificent strategist; ~~and~~ ~~at~~ ~~that~~ ~~point~~ ~~his~~ ~~loyal~~ ~~forces~~ ~~have~~ ~~fallen~~ ~~into~~ ~~his~~ ~~trap~~ and the traitors soon besieged the capital. Knowing that ~~his~~ defeat would threaten the lives of ~~his~~ subjects, Ayaz had ~~no choice~~ ~~but~~ to duel his favourite son. But the king was old ~~and~~ ~~Aman~~ ~~was~~ ~~young~~ ~~and~~ ~~full~~ ~~of~~ ~~bravery~~ ~~and~~ ~~soon~~ ~~enough~~ the great ruler was horribly wounded. Only the ~~brave~~ sacrifice of a royal guard saved the life of Ayaz, as the youth ran ~~and~~ right in to the killing blow. This gave the king ~~just~~ the time to make a ~~precise~~ strike through a dent in his son's armour, going straight into his heart. The tearful father was carried back to his palace, where his injuries have ~~made~~ ~~caused~~ him to fall into a lethargy. Due to that, the eldest of his faithful sons, Robert, had become his regent and started retorging the kingdom from its tattered remains.