

94

МОСКОВСКИЙ ГОСУДАРСТВЕННЫЙ УНИВЕРСИТЕТ имени М.В. ЛОМОНОСОВА

ОЛИМПИАДНАЯ РАБОТА

Наименование олимпиады школьников: «Ломоносов»

Профиль олимпиады: Английский язык

ФИО участника олимпиады: Шилова Екатерина Максимовна

Класс: 11

Технический балл: 94

Дата проведения: 05 марта 2022 года

Загавул 1.

- 1) This statement is false, since Edward I inherited his title; only Aleksandr Nevsky was elected.
- 2) This statement is false, because not only were both of the monarchs great warriors, but both their titles were delivered from military campaigns.
- 3) This statement is true. Both leaders were married and had families.
- 4) This statement is true. Only through self-control and anger management had Edward I mastered the art of leadership and negotiation.
- 5) This was not stated in the text; both men were great rulers, but we don't know if they truly loved what they did.
- 6) This statement is false. Both leaders managed to do good for their people with the ~~help~~ of negotiation.
- 7) This statement is true. Aleksandr Nevsky managed to change the way Rus' was ruled through his son.
- 8) This statement is true. Both leaders seemed to make progress in that field.

158

Загавул 2.

Once upon a time a magnificent, smart girl was born into a royal family. She inherited untold riches and lands, yet only had her eye on a simple man - a guard she couldn't marry, as he wasn't royalty. Once the princess had become the queen, she came up with a decree: "He who can win a chivalric tournament will become my husband." She watched the tournament in anticipation, as her beloved guard advanced through. Only once was his life threatened: his opponent pretended to give up, only to turn to betrayal and charge at him from the back. Yet the guard avoided the strike and saved himself. Thus the queen and the guard lived blissfully ever after.

295

Справка 5.
Заголовок 3.

Учреждение.

- Hello, dear listeners. Welcome to "From Time to Time", a semi-weekly show where we break the laws of space and time to ask people from days long gone about current trends. Today we are going to talk to Aleksey Tolstoy, one of the greatest Russian sci-fi writers of the early 20th century. Welcome, Aleksey, welcome to 2022!

- Hello, ma'am. Thank you for having me today. This supе is an experience to remember.

- I'm glad you like it, sir. Does the modern world seem unusual to you?

- It truly does. Of course, I imagined such a timeline of great technological progress and space exploration, but, at the time, I could not even think that an inspiration could become a reality.

- I see. Aleksey, in your books you raised the idea of scientists and engineers using their innovations for their own foul personal gain. Do you think this could be an issue in the 21st century?

- Of course it could. Irrational use of power could lead to many disasters and catastrophes. However, in the right hands technology is a blessing, uniting many people across the world. Or worlds, even.

- I agree with you. The theme of responsible use of technology is fantastically outlined in "The Garin Death Day". This book is a staple of Russian sci-fi literature, and so is "Helita". Speaking of which, do you think Mars could be reached by modern people one day? Or could we even discover life on it?

- I do believe that yes, in theory, humanity could reach Mars. Some scientists, like that one gentleman, Elon, seem to be making progress in that field. Who knows, maybe the voice of a distant Martian princess could be heard by you one day.

- What a great answer, Aleksey. Thank you for your time on "From Time to Time"!

- Thank you for the conversation. I only hope that you, people of the 21st century, will be able to appreciate and use the riches progress can offer.

Страница 1.

Кемерово.

Ex. 1.

1. This statement is false, since Edward I inherited his title; only Aleksandr Nevsky was elected.
2. This statement is false, because not only both monarchs were great warriors, but both their titles were delivered from ~~their~~ military ~~work~~ campaigns.
3. This statement is true. Both were married and had ~~children~~ families.
4. This statement is true. Only through self-control and anger management had Edward I mastered the art of leadership and negotiation.
5. This wasn't stated in the text; ~~both~~ both men were great rulers, but we don't know if they loved what they did.
6. This statement is false. ~~Both~~ Both leaders managed to do good for their people with the help of negotiation.
7. This statement is true. Aleksandr Nevsky managed to change the way ~~the~~ Rus' was ruled through his son.
8. This statement is true. Both leaders seemed to make progress in that field.

Сказка 2.

magnificent

Героиня

Once upon a time, a beautiful girl was born into a royal family.

As she grew older, her looks ~~only~~ became ~~more~~ magnificent, and her kindness bloomed like a rose. She inherited untold riches and ~~her father and servants of her mother~~ ^{and smart} ~~her~~ ^{her} ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~rich~~ ^{rich} ~~as a husband~~ ^{as a husband} ~~she~~ ^{she} ~~only~~ ^{only} ~~had~~ ^{had} ~~her~~ ^{her} ~~eye~~ ^{eye} on one person - a royal guard. She couldn't ~~simply~~ ^{simply} ~~marry~~ ^{marry} ~~him~~ ^{him} ~~because~~ ^{because} ~~he~~ ^{he} ~~wasn't~~ ^{wasn't} ~~royal~~ ^{royal} ~~enough~~ ^{enough}.

Once she ^{had} become the queen, the ~~war~~ ^{war} came up with a decree: "He who can win a tournament will become the king ~~and~~ ^{and} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~king~~ ^{king} ~~of~~ ^{of} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~land~~ ^{land}." She watched the tournament in anticipation, as her beloved guard advanced through ^{only} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~first~~ ^{first} ~~match~~ ^{match} once was his life threatened: ~~the~~ ^{his opponent} ~~general~~ ^{general} ~~he~~ ^{he} ~~pretended~~ ^{pretended} to give up, only to ~~turn~~ ^{turn} to betrayal and charge at him from the back. ~~By~~ ^{By} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~queen's~~ ^{queen's} ~~stroke~~ ^{stroke} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~guard~~ ^{guard} ~~avoided~~ ^{avoided} the strike, ~~and~~ ^{and} ~~he~~ ^{he} ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~happy~~ ^{happy} ~~to~~ ^{to} ~~see~~ ^{see} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~queen~~ ^{queen} ~~and~~ ^{and} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~guard~~ ^{guard} ~~lived~~ ^{lived} ~~together~~ ^{together} ~~blissfully~~ ^{blissfully} ever after.

Слушатель 3.

Участвующий

- Hello, dear listeners. Welcome to "From Time to Time", the ~~last~~ show where we break the laws of space and time to ask people from days long gone about current trends. Today ~~we are~~ we are going to talk to Aleksey Tolstoy, one of the greatest Russian sci-fi writers of the early 20th century. Welcome, Aleksey, welcome to ~~the show~~ ²⁰²².

- Hello, ma'am. Thank you for having me today. This sure is an experience to remember.

- I'm glad you like it, sir. ~~Does~~ Does our world seem unusual to you?

- It sure does. Of course, I imagined such a timeline of great ¹⁰⁰ technological progress and space exploration, but at the time I couldn't imagine that an inspiration could become a reality.

- In your books you raised the idea of scientists ^{and engineers} using their innovations for their own gain. Do you think this could be an issue in the 21st century?

- Of course it could. Irrational use of power could lead to many ~~heads~~ ^{technology} and catastrophes. However, in ^{the} the right hands ~~can~~ ^{disasters} can be a blessing, uniting many people from across the world. Or worlds, even.

- I agree with you. The theme of misuse of technology is fantastically outlined in "The Green Death Ray." This book is a staple ¹⁰⁰ of Russian sci-fi literature, and so is "Aelita". Speaking of ~~science fiction~~ ^{science fiction} ~~what~~ ^{what}? which, do you think modern people could reach Mars ~~one day~~ ^{and even discover something on it?} ~~and even discover something on it?~~

- I do believe that yes, they could, in theory. Some scientists, like that one gentleman, Elon, seem to be making progress in that field. Who knows, maybe the voice of a distant Martian princess could be heard by you one day, if life is ever found on Mars.

- What a great answer. Thank you for time on "From Time to Time"!

- Thank you for the conversation. ²⁰²²

I only hope that you, people of the 21st century, will be able to appreciate the riches progress can offer.