1) During this period they develop various body and brain functions, generate lots of new ideas that influence their imagination. Adolescents also have an ability to think positively, and they recover from crises and bad moods twice faster than adults.

2) Because nowadays adolescents do not need to work from the very childhood to survive. These days they have an opportunity to live ~~an~~ in comfort and to receive an education. They are also supported by parents both financially and emotionally, so ~~there~~ there is no need for them to start working early.

3) In my opinion, they focus on different aspects. The first text deals with physical and mental functions that are usually being developed during this period of life, while the second text provides information about the reasons why adolescents had to start working early in the past.

4) Text 1 claims that adolescents recover mentally very fast. I do not really agree with this statement. Judging from my own experience, it is very difficult for teenagers to cope with their problems, they are always under pressure, and many of them feel sad or anxious most of the time. This state can last for quite a long period of time, so I do not agree with the information in the text.

5) In my opinion, it is impossible, as education provides an opportunity to get a well-paid job. Many employers now want to have qualified ~~employees~~ workers, so it is important for teenagers to receive a good education, as money is the key for independence.

Recently I have read your article on reducing the number of airplane flights. You blame them for being one of the causes of climate change. The purpose of this letter is to give you my own ideas. The problem of climate change is of great importance, and I think there are other things that affect climate.

The first and probably not the most obvious reason for climate change is pollution. Humans all over the world consume a lot of goods and food every day, as well as they throw away a lot. Not everything is recyclable, so it just stays in its original form for years and even centuries. This destroys the balance in nature, plants and animals die, the activity of various microorganisms is affected negatively and, in their turn, they influence climate in a bad way.

Another cause of the problem is global warming. The activity of plants people build to produce the necessary goods destroys the ozone layer. It allows the Sun to warm up the Earth, which ends up in climate change happening. Many countries experience abnormal warmth and, as some scientists claim, the Earth may ^{literally} finally be burnt in the future. Moreover, it can eventually be flooded. The ice caps in Arctica are already melting, which can result in increasing the level of water and flooding many countries.

руководя

To solve this problem, I suggest that people must think more about the possible consequences of their actions. We should recycle everything that can be used again, and build special constructions and install mechanisms to compensate for the effects of the activity of plants.

All in all, I think that humanity should take urgent measures to save the planet or it will be too late.
