1. He was only learning his craft, not knowing which style to work in. So he tried to follow other ~~artists~~ writers, so he could come up with his own style.
 2. In his first period Shakespeare wrote in the Senecan tragic style, chronicle and history plays.
 3. He didn't like writing in this style. He only tried it once and never returned to it.
 4. After examining the problem of evil Shakespeare became a civic pessimist. His comedies become bitter, but while this period he created the best tragedy: "Hamlet".
 5. His last period was a calmer one. Quite serious, but lovely.
 He began to write in tragicomedy and successfully progressed and by creating "The Tempest".

1. "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" ~~was~~ ^{was} published in ~~XIX~~ century in the UK by Mark Twain.
2. The abbreviation "i.e." stands for "for example".
I like so called "dad" jokes i.e. if somebody doesn't have a body, what is he called? A nobody!
3. This idiom means "appear out of nowhere".
- Where's Al?
- I don't know.
* Al clapped his hands from behind*
- Oh my god, you came out of the blue. That was scary
- Sorry, pal.
4. Speaking the truth - I have no idea what "scones" mean. And this is totally my fault - I once saw this word in menu somewhere abroad (I don't know exactly where) but was scared to order some food and I don't know translation of which. Or maybe I'm mistaking and "scones" is not a food at all, lol.
5. I don't pay attention to the news, but I certainly know that last queen died and now her son is the monarch, but I have no idea what his name is. I'm sorry for myself. After finishing this I'm going to google it.

G'day, sis!

Yea, Dad, it's me again. I know it's only the third day here, but omg, I am totally in love with it already! Today I've spent most of the day outside, unlike yesterday. It is really hot there, and I don't like it, but I can take it. I've been seeing sites and met my disco friends live. Don't worry - they are great people.

The city is great. But there is one thing I couldn't bear - there is a skateboard park just one block away and I forgot to take it from home! And so I bought a new one... I know I have a pile of my old decks, but you know how I am obsessed with boards.

Yesterday was an unlike day for my personality, because I stayed at home. And you won't believe it - I cleaned up the place! Just imagine - me and a clean-up, lol. The rest of time I was gaming. But I have nothing else to do - it rained all day.

I'd love to tell you my plans for tomorrow - but I have none. I'm not joking - all I have planned is a movie night. Almost forgot to ask - can Teddy come over? He's a nice pal and a huge fan of Lolo, just like me. Well, a bigger one - he knows Sinatra on a good level.

But, nevertheless I miss home. Mostly - you and mom, and also my friends. And sorry, but Lizzie told me you're coming on weekend. Could you please bring my ipod here? I only took laptop, but is just too big to take outside. And my multitool for skates. Oh, almost forgot - could you please take my teddy bear? I can't sleep well without Little Mister. Tux!

Your Vi! xxx

PS: love you, miss you, kiss you.

G'day sir!

Yes, Dad, it's me again. I know it is only the third day since I arrived, but only this is a perfect holiday already.

~~Most of the day.~~

Today I spent most of my time walking around, seeing sights and stuff. I mean yes, it's ~~good~~ ^{cool}, yes I don't like ~~it~~ but I couldn't bear sitting home like I did yesterday. ~~It was tearing me apart.~~

The city is great, I found a huge skatepark and I was so depressed, when I understood what a fool I've been, when thought, that skateboard is not needed. But! As I always say: "there is never too much of these three things: money, sketchbooks and skateboards!" You guessed right - I'm sorry for waisting the money on another board, but the fact that skatepark is ~~was~~ one blok away was tearing me apart.

So yesterday I surfed the internet for a nice board and I swear - it was cheap. Okay, I know how much you hate this obsession of mine, ~~but~~ ^{so} no more skateboards. I also did many fun things (no). I met my local friends, ~~for~~ ^{for} yes - the ones I met on discord, but don't worry, Dad, they are great guys.

I would love to tell you where I'll be and what I'll do tomorrow, but right now I have only one thing planned - movie night. But you won't be interested - you don't like Marvel and lots.

Right now I am really happy, but I do miss you and mom (tell her I send a love to her also), and my friends from school, but I'll be fine.

Hey, I know you're coming sooner or later, could you please catch up with my skateboards and iPad. I forgot it back home, and my laptop is way too huge to take out. Oh, and my teddy bear, I'll never give it away. Love you, miss you, kiss you.
