1. Teenagers are in their best shape physically and mentally with functions, ~~the~~ such as strength, ~~a~~ memory and many others, at their peak. One of the most important advantages teenagers gain is their innate resiliency that manifests itself in their optimism and exceptional ability to deal with crises.
2. Before 20th century teenagers had to work from a very young age, because their families didn't have enough money to provide for them, so ~~the~~ adolescents had to contribute to the family budget. ~~Now, the~~ Nowadays, the situation has changed ~~to~~ due to higher living standards and a change in education policies.
3. Texts focus on different aspects of adolescence. Text 1 focuses on physical and mental state of teenagers, while Text 2 ~~is centered~~ <sup>covers the</sup> historical aspect of ~~adolescence~~ adolescence as a cultural phenomenon.
4. I'd like to comment on a point ~~made~~ made in Text 1: from a biological point of view, adolescence can be considered the best age. I don't fully agree with this ~~as~~ statement, as while it is true that many functions (ability to learn or reaction <sup>for example</sup> time) are heightened, the matter of ~~hormonal change~~ hormones should not be forgotten. The hormonal change that happens in a teenager's body ~~is~~ <sup>causes</sup> multiple ~~negative adverse negative~~ <sup>brings about</sup> ~~changes~~ <sup>has</sup> ~~adverse~~ <sup>negative</sup> effects, such as heightened ~~perspiration~~ <sup>some</sup> perspiration, mood swings and others. Therefore, ~~adolescence~~ adolescence has ~~its own~~ <sup>some</sup> biological drawbacks that make it impossible to call it the best ~~age~~ period of life.
5. ~~I think it is possible for adolescents to become independent through means other than education. They can become unqualified~~
5. I think it is possible for adolescents to become independent without ~~even~~ having to ~~even~~ give up their education - I believe so, because ~~for many teenagers education is the key to gaining independence as they move out of their parents~~ nowadays there are a lot of opportunities to work online or part-time. As neither school, nor higher education usually requires ~~standing~~ teenagers to study all day long, they can combine working and getting an education, therefore becoming financially independent.

Planning London trip

1. Museums and galleries

We should ~~definitely~~ <sup>9</sup> definitely visit the British Museum (the Ancient history halls are my favourite, highly recommend) and the British Art Gallery (a wonderful opportunity to learn more about British artists). If ~~we~~ <sup>you</sup> are interested in contemporary art, we can visit the TAT Gallery, and I guess some of you might want to see the wax figures at the Madam Tussod's Museum, but I don't recommend it, it's ~~so~~ <sup>pretty</sup> overrated.

2. Landmarks and history

We should also go see the Buckingham Palace, the royal residence, which is a good place to ~~discuss~~ talk about the late Queen Elizabeth II and her reign, which can be considered a historical period of its own. We can also visit the Parliament and learn about the ~~Bonfire night~~ Bonfire night and the Westminster Abbey, where we can learn about all the kings and Queens who ~~were~~ were crowned there.

3. Theatres and parks

We can visit ~~any~~ of the West End theatres and see anything from ~~the~~ classics to more modern plays, ~~although~~ <sup>if you</sup> if ~~you~~ want to see Shakespeare, particularly the Globe, and be sure

~~2. Theatres and parks~~

3. Theatres and parks

We can be sure that anything we ~~would~~ watch in one of the West End theatres is going to be brilliant, but if you want to see watch something by Shakespeare specifically, the Globe Theatre is an obvious choice. Alternatively, we can attend a play in an open air theatre in Regent Park. ~~They have Shakespeare, Oscar Wilde, and many more.~~ <sup>9</sup> Talking about parks, we should go to Hyde Park, where we can visit the ~~British~~ Zoo.

4. Transport (convenience vs enjoying a city tour)

When it comes to transport, we have two options: take the Tube, which is cheap, convenient and fast, or ~~take~~ take the bus, ~~which~~ which will allow us to do some sightseeing. Another way to get a 'city tour' without actually travelling the city is by visiting the Eye: you can see lots of sights from it, including the Tower Bridge.

Food 5. Food

I don't have much to say about food aside from the fact we should sample some clotted cream and fish and cheaps, I think they are basic enough to be tasty ~~anywhere~~ anywhere we decide to go in London.

Dear editor of 'Weekly musings',

I am ~~writing~~ writing to you to comment on an article you published last week. The problem of combating ~~the~~ climate change that you raised is indeed of utmost importance. I consider the points you made to be very interesting and would like to state my opinion on the issue. I think that people should ~~be held~~ try to reduce their carbon footprints as there is a lot that can be done for it. However, I also believe that corporations are to blame for ~~the~~ global ~~warm~~ warming much more than individuals.

I agree with you when you write that people can and should reduce how much they travel by plane. It is unbelievable how much CO<sub>2</sub> is released during an ~~air~~ airplane flight, especially considering it is not even a necessity ~~in~~ in most cases. What is more, there are other affordable means of transportation that ~~people~~ can switch to, but decide not to bother. For example, in my country you can catch a flight to a destination where it would take only two hours to get to by train. As trains contribute considerably less to climate change, a decision to still ~~travel~~ <sup>travel</sup> by plane ~~even~~ when ~~it would take~~ other convenient options are available is nothing but ~~wasteful and~~ irresponsible.

As was mentioned in the article, an average early ~~foot~~ carbon footprint of a person ~~is~~ in India is comparable to emissions from one ~~airplane~~ airplane flight. I guess it is the case for most of the ~~world's~~ population of the Earth (more or less). However, what produces ~~more~~ more CO<sub>2</sub> in a month than any person in a year are the corporations. Their emissions are ~~un~~ unmatched by anything an individual ~~can~~ could do, especially when we consider international corporations. And they use planes for shipping and other purposes, too. It is only fair that the responsibility of finding a solution ~~and~~ lies on the wealthy who are running ~~the~~ these companies as they are the ones ~~responsib~~ who contribute the most to the problem.

As for what can be done to try to save the planet, I guess for the individuals it is as easy as ~~trying~~ <sup>choosing</sup> to travel by train ~~not by plane~~ instead of by plane and ~~considering~~ trying to consume goods produced by ecologically responsible companies. ~~The~~ <sup>As for</sup> corporations, ~~they~~ should be held accountable not only by people, but also by the governments of the world.

Чистовик. Лист 4.

All in all, I find it crucial that we unite in the ~~battle~~ fight against climate change. Supposing ~~so~~ that corporations and governments are at the forefront of this battle, we may actually stand a chance.

~~Sincerely~~

Respectfully, your reader
