Nowadays museums are incredibly important. They have always been an integral part of the world's modern culture. It is not only essential to know ^{about} the history, the culture and the museums of your country but also to learn about the world's cultural heritage.

The London's British Museum has recently introduced an interesting concept of an event for kids. "Awesome Greece" is a sleepover right in the museum. It includes tons of amazing activities. However, I do not think that this kind of event would be suitable for teenagers (people over 14) as people of this age group prefer having fun ~~or~~ without adults' supervision. There is also a pretty questionable price for this event. Not many parents are ready to pay £65 only for one night in the museum. Nevertheless, the number of activities is fantastic. ~~There are~~ It is important to highlight the convenient time of this event. On Saturdays and Sundays children do not have school and parents do not have to work so it is a perfect solution for everyone. Most of the aspects of this event are quite convenient.

I ~~£~~ would like to show my event plan.
~~Today~~

Welcome to the Winter Palace and spend an ~~pleasant~~ evening in the heart of Saint-Petersburg!

The Winter Palace offers you to spend the evening right in the museum. You will be able to taste delicious Russian cuisine in the middle of the art gallery. Nice music, tour around the palace ~~and~~ mouth-watering dishes and ^{an} amazing atmosphere. Everything is available here, in the Winter Palace.

Evening in the Palace

£70 per person

England had been a part of the Roman Empire for about 400 years. Romans were the ones who decided to call the people of Britain Britons. We can still see the straight roads, strong walls, and fine houses that the Romans had built in England. British people ~~started to~~ lived like Romans. They wore Roman clothes, went to the theatre; they could even speak Latin. During the later years of the Romans' control some British people became Christians.

It is essential to keep the Yellowstone National Park "alive" (clean and pretty), ~~because~~ otherwise its wildlife will be suffering and people will lose the site of more than 10.000 geothermal features ^{with}

It is important to keep the Sydney Opera House working in order to leave ~~some~~ this ~~an~~ breathe-taking architectural heritage for our decendants.

Palace of Westminster and - Westminster Abbey is important for London. It is not possible to imagine it disappearing. People should keep it functioning.

The Historic District of Old Québec has a historically important purpose, people must not ruin it.
