The Roman invasion undoubtedly affected Britain in many ways. Before the Romans came, the island's population was divided into tribes with different leaders and hardly any unity between them. The Romans unified the tribes under one name, and their oppression forced the tribes to come together against their oppressors.

Even after the Romans left, ~~the population~~ Britons continued to largely speak Latin. Their cultural and architectural influence is still felt today. Britain remains Christian.

GREAT BARRIER REEF - It is a site of remarkable variety... ++

The Great Barrier Reef is an incredibly beautiful and biodiverse area that scientists are very interested in studying, and it would be extremely regrettable if all of that magical life were to disappear.

SYDNEY OPERA HOUSE - ~~This place was founded by~~ I inaugurated in 1973, the site... ++

The Sydney Opera House truly is an amazing feat of architecture. It is one of the most iconic buildings in the world and ~~is~~ huge cultural significance to Australia.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK - The vast natural site covers... ++

This site should also be cherished for its beauty, biodiversity and cultural significance. ~~It is~~ <sup>It also</sup> home to one of the largest volcanoes in the world.

PALACE OF WESTMINSTER - The structure, rebuilt from the year 1840... ++

This structure has an extremely interesting history and is still ceremonially being used in the UK today.

HISTORIC DISTRICT OF OLD QUEBEC - This place was founded by... ++

Quebec is a city with many layers of history, and this district reminds visitors of the horrors of the colonial past. (9)

Block 5

Museums play an extremely important role in today's world. With younger generations being less and less interested in learning about history year by year, museums often provide a ~~fast~~ way to ~~study~~ study the subject in a more exciting way for children and adults alike. While knowing the history of your Motherland is important, one could argue it is even more important to ~~learn about~~ <sup>learn about</sup> the history of other countries as that creates an ever bigger sample size of mistakes that you should avoid repeating.

I believe "Awesome Greece" is an amazing way to get children to know about the workings of such a fascinating civilisation. Activities like dancing and drawing will help create associations in the kids' heads, so they end up remembering the material better. It will also be a good way for them to socialise which is important at that age. Parents will get a nice weekend ~~break~~ break from their children.

While <sup>some</sup> museums provide historical knowledge about various countries, I believe it is more important for teens to become better in a moral way, rather than spiritually, rather than intelligently. That is why I propose the Pushkin Museum to hold a similar event for teens. It might help them recognise how truly remarkable <sup>literature focused</sup> literature can be. Here is ~~an~~ an how I believe the event should take place:

17-21-78-36

(9.16)

Saturday night	Sunday morning
18:00-Registration	07:00-Breakfast, pick up
18:30-Meet group leader, choose sleeping spot in Leningrad gallery	08:00-Watching Film adaptation of Romeo and Juliet
19:00-Discussion of favourite literature	10:00-home time
20:00-Watching Film adaptation of Evgeniy Onegin
22:00-playing guitar songs by poets like Vladimir Vysockiy and Egor Letov
00:00-lights out

It ~~is~~ is important to make participants understand that literature, as any medium of art, takes many forms, and can be <sup>just</sup> as exciting as playing a video game. (50)
