I believe that the museums play a great role in the world's culture nowadays. They give visitors an opportunity to learn about all the unique cultural aspects of each country. People of all ages get a chance to take a look at the ancient artifacts, architecture, art and lifestyle of the past by visiting ~~the~~ various museums. It is important and beneficial to visit not only those museums that are located in our own country, but also the foreign ones, as we learn about the cultural and ethnical differences between the countries.

"Awesome Greece" is a perfect example of an activity connected to visiting a museum, that gives its visitors a great opportunity to get familiar with the Greek culture. I am of the opinion that teenagers at the age of 16-17 would enjoy this activity, however, the required age of its visitors is between 8 and 14, that is why teenagers like me would not be able to attend the sleepover as children. Nevertheless, I suppose that we can enjoy the program still, being counted as adults. I'd like to say that the organization of the activity is quite comfortable for the attenders. Each component of the sleepover has its own time limit, which makes it possible to fit in as many activities as needed. What's more, 12 AM is a perfect time for lights out. The children and their parents are able to have a rest after spending such productive and enjoyable day at the museum.

Speaking about the museums, I would like to suggest you our own cultural program called "The world of literature". The program is dedicated to a famous russian writer Alexander Sergeevich Pushkin, his art and life path. The activity is going to be held at Pushkin's Museum, where your child can learn more about the poet and take part in multiple entertaining activities. It contains a master-class on writing your own story, a lecture about Pushkin's and his most famous works and a cozy evening activity, where ~~everyone~~ all the visitors gather together and read Pushkin's poems and more. The suitable age of the attenders is 14+, however, the adults are welcomed too. We care about our visitors, that's why our program contains two lunch breaks and a free hour to rest, in case the teenagers get tired. We are waiting for you on Sunday, the 12th of February at Pushkin's Museum!
