смп.1

A.

- 1) evolution
- 2) thousands
- 3) enlightenment
- 4) novel
- 5) exquisitely

B.

Both of these texts share a common idea that there were many misunderstandings in the past over evolution. The ^{second} ~~first~~ text, however, states that ~~the~~ evolutionary biology is a science. One practical takeaway would be that without mistakes there would be no progress, so do not be afraid of being wrong. People must stay curious and interested in everything.

A.

The following two extracts add to the importance of grammar as we can see exactly how a person's grammar shows who the person is. Grammar is one of the most important aspects that show how smart and interesting ~~the~~ a person is, as grammar is the first thing that you notice when talking to someone new. If you have bad grammar, you are automatically seen as less intellectual by other people.

B.

In text A I would imagine the character to be from a rather poor family, working class. That doesn't mean that he isn't clever, he ~~or~~ (or she) might actually have a very sharp brain, but we can tell by the slang that they are using, that books and school are not the main thing on their mind. I would imagine the person to have a 'cockney' accent, maybe they are from the south of England.

In text B I would imagine the character to be very young. His lack of grammar could be from the fact that he has simply never learned it. On the other hand, seeing as the boy is sick, it could be from not being able to go to school because of his sickness. If that is the case, then that is very sad. We shouldn't forget how lucky we are to be able to get an education.

Task C.

^{But} - I do not have sixty pounds.

^{People} - ~~III~~ think of you as my father.

- Please give the handkerchief back. He gave it to me, ~~not~~ to he didn't give it to you

3) I hope I have luck. I ~~get~~ ^{have} my rabbits foot and my lucky penny and my horseshoe. Dr Strauss ~~said~~ told me to not be so superstitious and that this is science. I don't know what science is but they all keep saying it so maybe its something that helps you have good luck. Anyway. I'm keeping my rabbits foot in one hand and my lucky penny in the other hand with the hole in it. The penny I mean.

I can, with confidence, say, that this speech was not made by Barack Obama.

Firstly, phrases like 'flag or fail', 'we shall fight on seas and oceans', show that the speech is older than Obama. Secondly, the speech contains mentions of the New World, which is also from a different century. Also, Obama was the president of the USA, why would he call his country 'our Island home'. And lastly the speech is about war, Obama did not send his country to war.

Dreaming Big and Aiming High.

Good evening ladies and gentlemen! Oh, how lovely to see everyone today, all of you look so good! Honestly, I thought that I would be terrified standing up here, I was sure that I would be too scared to even say a word to such a crowd, but now, being here, I feel nothing but gratitude and love to every single one of you. I am so ~~great~~ honoured to address all of you guys and talk about my journey, about all of us, our journeys.

It sure hasn't been easy to reach the step at which we all are, and when I say all, I mean all. You, parents, I'm looking at you. Who would we all be without the support of our families? Without their kindness, patience, unconditional love... I would like to ~~thank~~ thank my own parents. Where are you guys? Hey mum, hey dad, thank you for all the love, I wouldn't have made it without you.

Apart from all the learning that we did, apart from all the subjects that we studied, school also taught us something incredibly important. Friendship. Back in year 8 I was ill for almost two months. Every single day I woke up feeling worse than the day before, It seemed like I was never going to recover. After a couple weeks I started to lose all hope of ever going back to school, back to my normal life, back to myself, until one day, one of my best friends came over. We talked about everything that I had missed, we studied and we laughed. She started coming over after school every day, sometimes she even brought me freshly-baked goods. I felt light coming back into my life, I felt hope, I felt love. The power of friendship restored my health and brought me back to my feet. This one is for you, Kiana, thank you, I love you.

Being grateful is one of the most important things that there is. I think we should all take a step back and remind ourselves what we should be grateful for. Don't forget to tell the people that you love how thankful you are to have them in your lives.

I would like to share another story with you guys. When I was seven I used to take a ballet class. Near the entrance of the class there were steps with words on them; they read:

'If you aim for the floor, you'll stay on the floor'
If you aim for the ceiling, you'll reach the window
If you aim for the sky, you'll reach the ceiling
If you aim for the stars, you'll reach the sky
But if you aim for infinity, you'll reach your potential.'
I didn't understand these words, but they stuck with me. I think I understand now, I hope you do to. I believe in every one of you and I wish you luck.

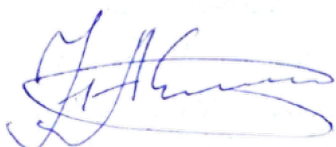

I would like to say a big thank you to our teachers, our mentors, you have all shaped us to become what we are today.

Guys, we did it, we graduated. Have a great life, I love you all.

Happy graduation!
